2-ALARM BLAZE AT BALTIMORE

Two alarms were sounded for fire in the Mercantile block on Central square, Waltham, this afternoon.

This block, located at the corner of Main and Moody streets in the business heart of Waltham, is a four-story brick structure, the finest store and office building in the city.

Biggest Block in the City.
By quick work the flames had been under control in a half-hour. But the fire was threatening from the first, and the second alarm was sounded as a precaution to have plenty of apparatus on hand.

City's Biggest Block.
This block is the largest in the city. There are stores and offices on the first floor. Lodge rooms and halls are on the upper floors.

Thousands of people crowded to the scene of the big fire and the police officers were called out to keep back the crowds and give the fire fighters a chance to work.

The Mercantile block faces the main square from the William street side. It is the upper part of the building. It was first noticed by people on the street when there was a burst of flames from one of the windows.

The flames shot out of the window and immediately an alarm was sounded.

The fire had gained tremendous head before its discovery. Before the first alarm of the apparatus arrived, flames were bursting from the windows of the upper floors. The fire had started near the middle of the block.

Governor Foss's Last Word:

"This Is the People's Fight"

This is the people's fight. Their power to direct public policies is at stake. The Republican machine is fighting for its life. Every insurgent Republican in Massachusetts owes it to himself to vote straight against the machine that has dominated his party.

The people must win—it is now or never. Stand firm. We shall have a tremendous victory.

Eugene R. Foss

Tremendous Vote Throughout State.

A tremendous vote all over the State was cast early and by noon it was estimated that Foss had won 50 to 55 per cent. of the votes had cast their ballots. The Democrats figured that the heavy vote would favor them because of the inclement weather in the early part of the day that would be likely to discourage voting in the rural Republican districts.

Foss Sure of Victory.
Foss was victorious at 7:10. After voting he was interviewed. He said: "We've got you on the run."

Having overruled his opponents and spoken his opinion the Governor proceeded on his way.

The Man That Lived in the Water—One of the Strangest Stories Ever Written

"I am listening—speak!"

Oxus had stayed motionless, his head bowed, his hands clasped in prayer. He had waited with suffering, but Hlectander's words had only brought a demoniacal smile to Fulbert's face.

He leaned toward Oxus, and in a low, harsh, guttural dialect, which Hlectander did not understand, he said:

"I will prevent his finding Moles. My allies will be warned. As he enters the city, he will spread fire and blood. Thus the world will submit."

Some of the Best Replies by the American's Readers

"I hear, who years after debate the whittiness of the want. He writes:

"First, to be able to produce process proving the existence of the soul and another life scientifically, simply and uniformly, that the masses would recognize it as fact.

"Second, that the intelligent world, together with governments, would combine to educate all people. Third, to love and respect each other, find the true and the beautiful and have courage and strength to fight for it."

If L. A. Devere got all of her wishes, she would be backing the fairies for she starts out with a desire for a million dollars, first, to make the true and the beautiful things like Mary Cabill used to sing he says:

The Don't Want Much.

"I wish that some person would loan me money so I could free myself from my health, for constant employment that may mean my livelihood, and to be able to live happiness to all I know."

"If I had all the gold in all in distress I need; for beauty counts no please to me."
